

FIRE IN DOUGLAS BLOCK; DAMAGE MAY BE MILLION

FLAMES IN BASEMENT OF DESMOND STORE CAUSE GENERAL ALARM.

AT 5 o'clock this morning all the fire apparatus in the city was called for and it was feared the entire building was doomed. The upper part of the Douglas block is filled with offices. The fire had also burned through to the alley, threatening the rear of buildings facing on Broadway. It was said the damage might reach $1,000,000. People in the Morrison Hotel, next door, were moved out.

The Douglas Block at Third and Spring streets was endangered early this morning in a raging fire starting in the basement of the Desmond store.

Indications at 4 o'clock this morning were that the loss would probably reach $300,000. The entire first floor of the building was a mass of flames. The C. H. Baker Shoe store at No. 253 S. Spring street, which occupies a front into the Desmond store, is believed to have lost its entire stock and fixings.

The flames which were believed to have been burning for an hour before were discovered shortly after 3 o'clock. They originated in the front of the basement facing Third street. The basement was stocked with men's furnishings and the combustible nature fed the flames into a raging furnace.

A few minutes after the first fire apparatus arrived the fire burst through the main floor and had spread through to the Spring street side of the basement.

Firemen were hard put by the volumes of smoke which poured from both entrances of the store and circulating through the buildings and up the elevator shafts funneled through the roof.

A general alarm was sent in and all of the downtown fire apparatus was set to protecting the adjoining buildings.

After burning for more than an hour after the firemen arrived, the flames were still beyond control and the majority of apparatus was set to protecting the adjoining buildings.

G. O. P. VOTE AVALANCHE WORRIES THE DEMOCRATS.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 3.—Administration Democrats and Republicans are in practical agreement tonight on the following indications of the results of the elections yesterday:

That the drift of the voters back to Republican control of the government which was evidenced in the Congressional elections a year ago is continuing.

That the "Progressives" are forsaking their party and casting their votes more generally for the Republicans than for the Democratic candidates.

That President Wilson, while stronger than his party, will have to make a hard fight for re-election next November.

That former Senator Root of New York, who dominated the New York State constitutional convention and championed the new Constitution, is definitely out of the running as a Republican Presidential candidate in consequence of the overwhelming rejection of his work.

That Associate Justice Hughes of New York looks up as the "best bet" of the Republicans for the Presidential nomination.

That the retirement of Gov. Willis of Ohio from the Presidential race and Republican gains in the Buckeye State strengthen the Presidential candidacy of former Senator Burton.

WILSON SILENT.

President Wilson declined to comment today upon the results of the elections, and his political advisers claim they are not significant because only local questions were before the voters. Nevertheless, before the elections took place the administration supported Walsh, the Democratic candidate for Governor in Massachusetts, the Democratic candidates for the Legislature in New Jersey, the Democratic candidates in Maryland and the Democratic candidates in Kentucky.

The Democratic slogan in Massachusetts was "A Vote for Walsh is a Vote for Wilson." The Democrats in New Jersey appealed to the voters to assure a Democratic victory, pointing out the interpretation that would be placed by the country upon the defeat of the Democratic candidates in the President's State. In Kentucky, Stanley, the Democratic candidate, who was elected, enjoyed the hearty endorsement of the President.

COMPARATIVE FIGURES.

Here are some of the comparative figures cited by the Republicans tonight:

In 1912 Massachusetts gave Wilson 173,000; Taft, 155,000; and Roosevelt, 142,000—a plurality for Wilson of 18,000.

In 1915 Walsh (Dem.) received 229,312; and McCall (Rep.), 235,918—a plurality for McCall of 6606.

In 1912 Kentucky gave Wilson 219,000; Taft, 115,000; and Roosevelt, 102,000—a plurality for Wilson of 104,000 votes.

In 1915 Stanley (Dem.) received a plurality of less than 5000 votes.

In 1912 New Jersey gave Wilson a plurality of 23,000; and the Democrats had a majority of 46 on joint ballot in the State Legislature.

In 1915 the majority given the Republicans on joint ballot was 12.

In 1915 Maryland gave Wilson a plurality of 55,000.

In 1915 Harrison, the Democratic candidate for Governor, received a plurality of 2000.

ISSUES AT STAKE.

The political advisers of the President assert that only local issues were before the voters. A study of what has happened, however, convinced Democrats as well as Republicans that these national matters had an influence with the voters:

(1.) Dissatisfaction with the tariff. Former Vice President Fairbanks made this an issue. The Kentucky campaign along with other criticisms of the administration.

(2.) Dissatisfaction of German-Americans with the President's European policies. This, it is asserted, was evidenced by the course of voters of German-American extraction in Baltimore and in the Twenty-third Congress District of New York.

(3.) Disapproval especially by Catholics of the President's Mexican policy.

MARYLAND, MY MARYLAND.

Attention is called in this connection as to what happened in Maryland.

These deductions are of such moment as to attract the attention of the President and those associated with him. In his D.A.R. speech the President practically declared he wanted no other voters in the United States than American voters. During the coming campaign he is expected to make this a predominant issue. His speech before

URGES SERBS TO SURRENDER.

AMSTERDAM (via London, Nov. 4, 4:31 a.m.)—Maj. Morah, military expert of the Tages Zeitung, after lengthily reviewing the Serbian situation, advances an argument for Serbia, in her own interest, to make terms with the Germanic allies. Maj. Morah admits that one line of retreat is still open to the Serbian main army, namely, through the Sanjak of Novipazar into Montenegro, but he expresses the belief that the Bulgarian army, which he says, has less than forty miles to go to take up the battle, will succeed in cutting off even this escape.

"It can hardly be expected," says Maj. Morah, "that the Serbians still reckon on relief from the Entente powers. Only a short time remains for a choice between surrender and death. In the interest of Serbia we hope she will choose surrender."

REVOLT OF ALBANIANS IN SERVIAN DISTRICT CAUSES FIERCE BATTLE.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

ROME, Nov. 3 (via Paris, Nov. 4).—Albanians living in the Shkoder and Kruje districts of Serbia have revolted, according to a Durazzo dispatch to the National Agency. A desperate battle between Servian troops and rebels has been fought north of Tirana. The anti-Servian movement has spread into northern Albania.

If the reported Albanian uprising against Serbia assumes proportions, it may prove a menace to the Serbian army threatened on three sides by its enemies and whose apparent avenue of escape is into the Albanian mountains.

Reports reaching Rome from Albania have been disquieting to the allied nations as it was said Austria was trying to stir up trouble by arming and inciting Albanian bands to attack the Serbs and Montenegrins to facilitate Bulgaria's movement to Durazzo.

It has been maintained, however, that a factor in favor of Serbia was the friendship felt for that country by Essad Pasha, former provisional President of Albania, who has a large following and who has been engaged in guerrilla warfare against his opponents for some time.

NEED OF GENERAL STAFF POUNDED INTO BRITONS.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

LONDON, Nov. 4 (1:35 a.m.)—Viscount Haldane, formerly Lord High Chancellor, in delivering the presidential address in the London School of Economics last night, devoted most of it to the General Staff.

"Between 1906 and the outbreak of the war," said Viscount Haldane, "our General Staff has grown into a valuable organization, but with the outbreak of the war, many of the officers went to the front and the staff accordingly suffered. But the nucleus remains and many distinguished staff officers are still available."

It would be prudent, Viscount Haldane continued, to study the German procedure. They had thrown their strength into the general staff work and only a magnificent staff could hope to play chess successfully against such a staff as the Germans possessed, he said.

He said he believed the almost entire direction of the campaign had been guided in Germany by the General Staff. Their staff had made blunders, but it also had obviously given the Germans the advantage of having the best and most precise advice worked out in every detail. The military situation surveyed as a whole showed that the German command had worked out such advice and that the German ministry appeared to have backed it up. Great Britain could not afford to be behind in this matter.

Viscount Haldane said he believed much of the outcry against civilian Cabinet committees would cease if it were known they had constantly before them detailed advice from the General Staff. This was a vital necessity which he said he was glad to think the Cabinet and Earl Kitchener would not be likely to overlook.

"It has been a drawback," the speaker continued, "that we have not had a general staff for fifty years like the enemy has had, instead of for only about a decade. If we had had five times, or even three times the number of trained staff officers many of our difficulties in the field could have been got rid of. Our staff officers were a match for the Germans in quality, but we wanted more."

FIGHTING IN SERBIA MOST DESPERATE KNOWN.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

LONDON, Nov. 4 (3:55 a.m.)—Fighting in Serbia has been more desperate than in any former Balkan war, according to telegrams from the Bulgarian front received at Budapest by way of Sofia and forwarded by the correspondent of the Post. M. Memtchilow, president of the Sobranje, who has just returned from the front, is quoted as saying:

"In all Serbian towns and even in the trenches our soldiers found women, children and old men who have been trained as bomb throwers and who generally were quite expert. The civil population is taking a large share in the fighting and is even more desperate than the soldiers."

There was not one Serbian village which Bulgarian soldiers entered—except in Macedonia, where they were not received with bombs and hand grenades from the hands of the civil population. Great numbers of bombs were found in almost every Serbian house. In many cases the Bulgarians were obliged to annihilate whole villages, the residents of which, after apparently having surrendered, threw bombs into the streets at the entering Bulgars. Even Serbian officers after being taken prisoner frequently hurled bombs into the faces of their captors."

SHIP LAW IS MODIFIED. CAPTAINS TO IGNORE IT.

(BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—Under instructions issued by acting Secretary Thurman of the Department of Commerce, American vessels which have made a bona fide effort to comply with the requirements of the new seamen's law, effective tomorrow, will be allowed to clear, even though they have been unable to secure a crew strictly in accordance with the new law.

In meeting the requirements of the law have been received. From the Pacific Coast both steamship companies and seamen's organizations have protested that the officials charged with the examination of applicants for able seamen certificates have not been able to conduct the examination in time to provide crews for ships sailing tomorrow.

The law takes effect tomorrow only.

BURGLARS ENTER RESIDENCE; TAKE VALUABLE SILVER.

Using a pass key, burglars early this morning, entered the residence of Paul Grimm, a jeweler, living at No. 645 West Twenty-third street, and carried away silverware valued at $1300.

Entering by the rear door the burglars ransacked the dining-room of the Grimm residence and took every scrap of silverware in the place. According to Mr. Grimm they also stole a solid gold clock and a number of solid silver candlesticks.

According to the police of University Station, who investigated the burglary, the back door was opened by a pass key and was then locked after the burglars left the residence. The Grimm family were away from the place until an early hour this morning and when they returned reported the theft to the police.

SERBIANS CHECK THE BULGARIANS.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

SALONIKI (Greece) Nov. 3 (via London).—The Bulgarians who are invading Southern Serbia appear to have encountered a check at the favor of the Serbians at Kriyolac, where the Serbians are strongly entrenched. In consequence of the resistance on the part of the Serbians the residents of Monastir are somewhat less fearful that the city will fall into the hands of the invaders. Some foreigners at Monastir, including the family of the Russian Consul, have abandoned their intention of quitting the town.

Toward the north the Bulgarians have captured the famous Katchank Pass. In front of Tetovo, which the Serbians hold with strong forces, the advance of the Bulgarians has been arrested. The Serbians are able to assume the offensive in the direction of Vranja.

On the front in Macedonia, held by French and British troops, there is little change. The entire occupied region has been cleared of Bulgarians as far as the frontier.

Degree by British at Tilbury.

Brigadier-General Who Examined Him Admits Lines in France Cannot be Broken Through and War will be Won by Commercial Power Which Holds Out the

BY HARRY CARR.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 3.—The English may have been glad to see me when I came from Germany into England, but they dissembled their love. I was held up and examined for five solid hours at Tilbury.

As we got off the channel steamer which brought us from Flushing our baggage was piled up on a wharf in front of a small wooden building. The customs officers made a perfunctory examination which consisted of turning up the tops of our suit cases to see if we carried tobacco. Then we sat down to wait for the herd of Dutch and Belgians to go through the formality of showing their passports. I was traveling with a New York ink manufacturer who had also come from Berlin and we realized that we were due for a session. My passport was covered with German police stamps.

Finally we were admitted into a little room in which three men sat at a little table. The man in charge sat in the middle. He was a miserable little insect with a red nose. He stared at me as he took my passport.

I should explain that while in Germany I once went to Ruhlben, a prison camp located in an old race track near Berlin, where the British civilians had been interned. While there I met a young Englishman who told me that his mother was almost going crazy with worry over his condition. He asked me, in case I should ever go to London, to communicate with his brother and let his mother know he was not being badly treated. When he asked me what I intended to do in London I mentioned this error among other things. To tell the truth I was rather pleased with myself in the role of a good Samaritan. When I got through the explanation the shrimp with the red nose turned to one of the other officials and said:

"Very weak. I can't say. What do you mean weak?" I demanded.

ORDERED BY OFFICER. But before he had a chance to reply a young man beckoned me into another room. It was hardly more than a bleak little shed with a table in the middle of the room. The man in charge sat at a fine looking officer in the uniform of a lieutenant-colonel and two other men whom I took to be from Scotland Yard. The army officer shook hands with me and asked me very pleasantly to sit down.

"Let's talk this over, you and I," said the colonel. "At one time or another I was still smarting over the insult I had received."

"What do you want to do in England?" asked the army officer. "I want to get out," I said. "All I want is to take the next steamer out."

"What's the matter?" asked the lieutenant-colonel. "I want to get into some kind of a country where they don't have a lot of damned insects with red noses insulting you," I said. I fear, a very childish and peevish way.

"Who insulted you?" demanded the colonel, bristling up.

I told him what had happened. He sank back into his seat on the rough bench, smiling. "Oh, him?" he said in a tone that quite mollified my wrath, and he added, "You have only me to deal with now." Then he began. It was then about 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Until 9 o'clock that night I was under constant cross-examination.

They asked me why I had come and where I had come from, and why. Sometimes the officer did the questioning, sometimes it was the Scotland Yard man.

"Now, look here," said the colonel at last. "You must have written a lot of pro-German stuff or they wouldn't have treated you so well in Germany."

"Not exactly pro-German stuff, but I have written some very sharp criticisms of England," I said. He asked me to tell him what they were.

"I said that your sea power has been proven to be a fizzle. That it doesn't get you anything," I said.

"But, my dear fellow, be reasonable. We have absolutely driven the commerce of Germany off the seas."

"Well, what of it?" I replied. "Germany is still on the job as far as I can see. You have staked all your war strength on a blockade and it doesn't seem to interfere with Germany's ability to make war. They are still going right along."

Finally he asked me what the German secret service was doing in London. "I don't know anything about secret services," I said.

"Oh, well, come now. You must have been followed by spies all the time you were in Germany. What were they like?"

"Colonel," I said. "I don't know much about spies. Being an American I haven't had any experience. I tell you what I will do. I will show you my spy in London compares with the Berlin variety, and let you know."

"You won't be followed in London," he retorted in a shocked voice.

"Like hell, I won't. I'll tell you what I'll do. You have almost won me out with all these questions. You tell that Scotland Yard man that I will give him my word of honor not to get up before 10 o'clock tomorrow morning so he can take a morning off on me." The colonel laughed and the incident passed.

After dinner we went again to the lounge-room and a brigadier-general of the British army came in and I was introduced. He was a fine type of officer, just as fine as the finest of them.

"Well, what of it?" I replied. "Germany is still on the job as far as I can see. You have staked all your war strength on a blockade and it doesn't seem to interfere with Ger-

Oliver Arden, Master Dredger, Called to Canal to Clear Ditch.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Nov. 3.—Proud of the title of "master dredger," which he earned through many years of successful work in digging the huge dredges in the channel of the Panama Canal, Oliver Arden left again for Panama today to take charge of the work of the huge machines now engaged in cutting out the blockade. Arden had retired from canal work and had bought a California ranch, where he intended to stay the remainder of his life.

Urgent wire summons came from Gov. Goethals, and, with the loyalty to the task in the zone which has characterized the efforts of all the canal builders, he started back to Panama.

of the German officers, polished, cool, with the polish of a man who has seen many things and knows himself and others. I was charmed with him. He asked me a few questions, but in the sweet-by style of the other officer. He was merely the polite interest of a man of the world in a returned traveler.

He asked me what I thought about the war, and I told him frankly that I didn't believe that either the English or the Germans would ever succeed in breaking through the line in France. I could see the other younger officers anxiously watching the general's face as I spoke. When I got through he smiled at me and said:

"I think exactly as you do. It would be possible to break through, but the cost would be too great. To break through we would have to lose 1,000,000 men. In one afternoon we would lose 100,000, and the next afternoon we would lose 100,000 more. We would then be through the line, but it would be too much to pay. No, the decision of the war will depend, just as you say, about the nature of the cooperation between the nations to hold out. The nation will win whose people can endure the longest."

THE COLONEL'S QUESTION. Very soon after that I left for London. The colonel asked me to put me on the train. "Tell me frankly what you would have done in a case like yours," he said.

"I would have done exactly as I did," I said candidly. "Considering all those German officers, I thought I would do what I thought of doing."

He smiled and intended to send you back, but you were so much interested in the army, whom we salute with emotion and pride.

Nevertheless I think the colonel was rather unimpressed by my story. From the way he looked at me when my train moved off. As I got into the car he spoke a few words of apology to the whole personnel and held me up so long.

"Oh, that's all right," I said. "It has been very interesting."

"Certainly I do. Don't you know if you had turned me back to Holland I would have been a busy story for me. I didn't care."

The colonel could only look at me; he was past speech.

ENTHUSIASM FOR BRIAND.

Vote of Confidence is Given by French Deputies.

Fighting for Civilization, He Informs Colleagues.

Durable Peace is Our Object,
Declares the Premier.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

PARIS, Nov. 3.—The ministerial declaration made today by Aristide Briand, the new Premier, was most favorably received in both the Chamber of Deputies and the Senate, and a vote of confidence of 515 to 3 was given to the Premier.

The Premier's announcement that it was the government's decision to obtain guarantees of a durable peace before laying down arms also was greeted with enthusiasm. M. Renaudel, the Socialist leader, in a speech declared that France was fighting for civilization, and that the Premier's declaration was a victory for the cause of peace.

This was taken to mean that the Premier was fighting for the recovery of Alsace and Lorraine, and the Deputy's utterances brought forth tumult and violent protests.

Deputies Renaudel, Emile Constant and Ramel attacked the Premier and demanded that there should be no compromise with the enemy. The Premier, however, declared that the government was not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy.

Several interpellations, not essentially hostile to the Premier, but more in the nature of questions, were put to the Premier. He answered them all with a view to the policy of the government, gave Premier Briand the occasion to show once more his mastery of the situation.

BRIAND'S PERORATION. During his peroration, the Premier brought all the Deputies to their feet when he said:

"France in this war is the champion of civilization. She is fighting for civilization and liberty. A durable peace can be given the world only when France has won her freedom."

"The hour is for action. Only by close and incessant co-operation will victory be obtained. Every one must accomplish his task. Once all responsibilities are established, every fault, every failure, will be punished."

"That is the programme of the new government. The government, aided by Parliament, will do its duty to the army, whom we salute with emotion and pride."

"With such an army, with such a chief, with a navy which so efficiently supports it, all hopes are permissible, and the country, assured as it is by the high standard of national conduct in France, from which the following extracts were given out today by the Overseas News Agency:

"The intolerance of French officialdom presents difficult conditions for the consideration of the French government. The French government is not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy."

"We know that your foremost intention is to second the action of the government. On its part the government is not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy."

"It is a union of nations, the Parliament and the government, that we will pursue the war to the end, to a victory that will drive the enemy from his invaded territory."

"France has not disturbed the peace. Resisting all provocations, she did everything possible to maintain the peace. She accepted war without fear, and she will not cease the struggle until the enemy has been mastered. This is the whole of the situation. Let us be a close union."

"We are in full accord with the British government concerning the conduct of military operations in the Balkans. France and her allies will never abandon the heroic nation whose resistance compels the admiration of the world."

"The present enterprise of Germany in the Balkans attests the failure of the master of Europe. The French government is not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy."

"Her hopes will be shattered. The central powers may postpone defeat, but they cannot prevent it. As for us, we shall vanquish in the end."

CONSTANT'S QUESTION. Emile Constant asked of the government greater severity in the treatment of the German prisoners of war. He asked that the government should demand the cessation of the censorship of publications of a political character.

M. Renaudel, Socialist leader, who followed M. Constant, criticized the working methods of Parliament and asked for closer co-operation between the Parliament and the government.

"Let the war be for national defense," he declared in conclusion. "Let us drive out the enemy, let us revenge Belgium and Serbia, but let us annex no part of the enemy's territory."

The speaker's final phrase provoked a tumult and lively protest, and M. Renaudel left the tribune hooted by the entire chamber, with the exception of the Socialists who applauded.

As soon as quiet had been restored, Andre Maréchal, former Undersecretary of War, still limping from a serious wound received in the Champagne, arose, and amid great applause declared that the soldiers in the trenches had not charged M. Renaudel to speak for them.

PEACE POSSIBILITIES.

ZURICH, Nov. 3 (via Paris, 4:15 a.m.)—The Neue Zürcher Nachrichten, which is close touch with clerical circles, denies that Prince von Buelow came to Switzerland with the object of opening peace negotiations, since under the present circumstances such proposals could come only from the Quadruple Entente. The newspaper says, however, that it is not impossible he will meet certain political personages at Lucerne, notably Giovanni Giolitti, former Italian Premier, who, it is reported, is about to arrive there tomorrow.

The object of the interview between the two statesmen, it is said, would be to study the possibilities of peace between Italy and the central empires.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS.

ROME, Nov. 3 (via Paris, 3:45 p.m.)—The Messagero asserts Count Albert Ehrenfried, Swedish Minister to Switzerland, is taking the principal part on behalf of Germans who favor peace negotiations in an effort to bring them to a close. The Count is now in Switzerland, and is now using his influence in favor of peace negotiations on the support of Switzerland.

THE POPE'S VIEW.

ROME, Nov. 3 (via Paris, Nov. 3, 4:20 a.m.)—Pope Benedict expressed regret today to cardinals who made inquiries that he was unable to give any hopeful assurance as to a likelihood of early peace negotiations. He said that the Pope was not officially denying that there is any foundation for the reports that a peace movement is under way.

GERMAN DEFEAT IS ADMITTED.

The retirement of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg's forces from the line running between Lakes Swenton and Lake Iken, means that the German commander is abandoning his attacks from the west and southwest on the Russian stronghold of Dvinsk, which has been held by the Russian forces since the beginning of the war.

Gen. Ivanoff has won another victory over the Teutons on the Stripa River. Further north in Volhynia there is heavy fighting, and the Russian claim to have captured a German line to the west of Novo Alexandrovsk.

"France has not disturbed the peace. Resisting all provocations, she did everything possible to maintain the peace. She accepted war without fear, and she will not cease the struggle until the enemy has been mastered. This is the whole of the situation. Let us be a close union."

"We are in full accord with the British government concerning the conduct of military operations in the Balkans. France and her allies will never abandon the heroic nation whose resistance compels the admiration of the world."

"The present enterprise of Germany in the Balkans attests the failure of the master of Europe. The French government is not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy."

"Her hopes will be shattered. The central powers may postpone defeat, but they cannot prevent it. As for us, we shall vanquish in the end."

CONSTANT'S QUESTION. Emile Constant asked of the government greater severity in the treatment of the German prisoners of war. He asked that the government should demand the cessation of the censorship of publications of a political character.

M. Renaudel, Socialist leader, who followed M. Constant, criticized the working methods of Parliament and asked for closer co-operation between the Parliament and the government.

"Let the war be for national defense," he declared in conclusion. "Let us drive out the enemy, let us revenge Belgium and Serbia, but let us annex no part of the enemy's territory."

The speaker's final phrase provoked a tumult and lively protest, and M. Renaudel left the tribune hooted by the entire chamber, with the exception of the Socialists who applauded.

As soon as quiet had been restored, Andre Maréchal, former Undersecretary of War, still limping from a serious wound received in the Champagne, arose, and amid great applause declared that the soldiers in the trenches had not charged M. Renaudel to speak for them.

TURKISH FORTS ARE DESTROYED.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Four allied torpedo-boats destroyed yesterday the Turkish forts of Tuzun, in the strait of Smyrna, a message from Athens to the Exchange Telegraph Company stated. The Turkish forts, which were built by the German government, were destroyed by the allied forces.

The war vessels were firing after a bombardment of two hours.

Anglo-French Expeditions on

Russians are now Attacking
All Along the Line.

(BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.)

LONDON, Nov. 3.—The vigorous support which Herbert H. Asquith, the British Premier, and Aristide Briand, the new French Premier, have promised Serbia is about to be realized. Besides the Anglo-French troops, including British cavalry, who already are in Southern Serbia, British and French transports are arriving daily at Saloniki and troops from there are being sent up the country immediately to attempt to check the Bulgarian march on the Danube.

Other transports, according to a Sofia dispatch, have landed troops at Kavala, a Greek port on the Aegean Sea, near the Bulgarian frontier. At the same time, the diplomats continue their efforts to obtain the support of Greece and Rumania for Serbia, who fought with them in the last Balkan war.

POSITION OF SERBIA. As time passes, however, Serbia's position grows more critical. The Austro-German drive from the north is proceeding slowly but surely, while two Bulgarian armies are approaching Nish, from which place the Serbian government has moved to Mirovitza, over near the Montenegrin frontier. The Serbians, nevertheless, are fighting stern defensive battles, and from the German accounts, it is apparent their main armies are making good their retreat, and leaving as the Russians did in Galicia and Poland, very little except what cannot be moved—such as copper mines—for the invaders.

There is further news of the Russian advance which several days ago was reported of Varna, Bulgaria's chief seaport. The opinion is held in the Entente countries that Rumania, where there is continued action in favor of intervention on their side, will allow the forces of Emperor Nicholas to have chosen her territory.

VICTORY BY IVANOFF. Gen. Ivanoff has won another victory over the Teutons on the Stripa River. Further north in Volhynia there is heavy fighting, and the Russian claim to have captured a German line to the west of Novo Alexandrovsk.

HOW CENSORS SPOIL NEWS.

(BY WIRELESS AND A. P.)

BERLIN, Nov. 3 (via Sayville).—The Cologne Gazette publishes a letter concerning the operation of the censorship in France, from which the following extracts were given out today by the Overseas News Agency:

"The intolerance of French officialdom presents difficult conditions for the consideration of the French government. The French government is not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy."

"We know that your foremost intention is to second the action of the government. On its part the government is not prepared to make any compromise with the enemy."

"It is a union of nations, the Parliament and the government, that we will pursue the war to the end, to a victory that will drive the enemy from his invaded territory."

"France has not disturbed the peace. Resisting all provocations, she did everything possible to maintain the peace. She accepted war without fear, and she will not cease the struggle until the enemy has been mastered. This is the whole of the situation. Let us be a close union."

"We are in full accord with the British government concerning the conduct of military operations in the Balkans. France and her allies will never abandon the heroic nation whose resistance compels the admiration of the world."

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 3.—The International Congress of women met today in the Presbyterian Mission in Chinatown. Before the meeting Lady Aberdeen, president of the Congress, spent an hour playing with the celestial wards of the institution.
Anthony Caminetti, United States Commissioner of Immigration, was to have addressed the Congress on Federal co-operation with the work of protecting young girls, but Mrs. Caminetti explained that the commissioner had not arrived from Washington.
Mrs. Francis E. Wolfe of the Friday Morning Club, Los Angeles, discussed "The Americanization of Citizenship," and Mrs. Jeannette A. Hyde of Utah, spoke of the co-operation of the agricultural colleges of Utah with the kitchen-garden movement.
Later in the day Lady Aberdeen was the guest of the Century Club and tomorrow night the Earl and Lady Aberdeen will be the guests of the women's board of the Panama-Pacific Exposition at a ball to be given in their honor in the California Building.

[BY A. F. DAY WIRE.]
ST. LOUIS (Mo.) Nov. 3.—Edward F. Kearney, president of the Wabash Railroad, today said the road would be operated in Missouri under its constitutional rights, regardless of the refusal of the Secretary of State to issue a license. Bankrupt Stock of Millinery

Combined with Stock of Miss Beemer, 614 South Hill Street, Bought from L. A. Wholesalers' Board of Trade Up-to-Date Millinery 25c on the Dollar and Less, Commencing Today

Miss Beemer conducted a high-class millinery shop at 614 So. Hill St., catering to the very exclusive trade of the Wilshire district and specializing on trimmed hats ranging in price from $15.00 to $35.00. We purchased her entire stock from the L. A. Wholesalers' Board of Trade at a mere fraction of its worth. Miss Beemer had been in business for only a short time, and her stock was all fresh and new, strictly this season's goods. This stock, combined with the bankrupt stock which we bought some time since, will go on sale today at the lowest prices ever quoted in Los Angeles for millinery of equal quality. Among the trimmed hats there is only one hat of a kind. There are hundreds and hundreds of shapes that are new and right up to date. Also flowers, feathers, plumes and all the various styles of hat ornaments that are in demand. The prices will average 25c on the dollar or less.

VITAL RECORD. The Times LOS ANGELES THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1915.—EDITORIAL SECTION. POPULATION: By the Federal Census (1910)—218,188 By the City Directory (1915)—229,417

XXXIVth YEAR. Fine Augury. GOOD TIMES SEEN IN BIG POWER BOND SALE. Disposal Authorized for Remainder of Issue to Local House. One-fifth Contracted for by Torrance-Marshall Company and Option Given on Bulk—Mayor Called Back in Haste to Sign Paper that Must be Rushed to New York Today.

STRENGTH indications of the steady improvement of financial and business conditions came yesterday when the City Council virtually closed negotiations for the sale of the remaining $5,474,000 of the 1914 power bond issue. An ordinance and a resolution were passed providing for the acceptance by the city of an offer from the Torrance-Marshall Company of Los Angeles to buy $2,825,000 worth immediately and take an option on the remainder of the issue.

THE sale of the major portion of the power bond issue, authorized in May of last year by a vote of the city, reflects a healthy condition of the bond market and indicates a general upward trend of the financial market.

THE Finance Committee approved to bid of the Torrance-Marshall company for the bonds, which bear 6 per cent interest.

OF these bonds there are $780,000 due A, thirty-nine bonds maturing August 1 each of the years 1923 to 1937, $2,410,000 class B bonds maturing 132 bonds each year, from 1923 to 1942, and $2,284,000 class C bonds maturing seventy-nine bonds each year from 1937 to 1942.

THE proposal is that the Torrance-Marshall Company buy at par and accrued interest a total of $1,020,000; the balance of $2,805,000 being given in exchange for the bonds.

THE option to be given shall give an option to each of the bonds, maturing from November 4, 1915, to buy at par and accrued interest the remainder of the bonds, amounting to $2,805,000.

THE option to be given shall give the Torrance-Marshall Company the right to buy within ninety days $1,000,000 class B bonds maturing from August 1, 1923, to August 1, 1942, and if these bonds are bought, the option on the remainder of the bonds shall be extended to November 4, 1915.

THE option shall be payable in cash and interest shall be payable in cash or in bonds of the city of Los Angeles, at the option of the Torrance-Marshall Company.

THE option shall be payable in cash and interest shall be payable in cash or in bonds of the city of Los Angeles, at the option of the Torrance-Marshall Company.

THE option shall be payable in cash and interest shall be payable in cash or in bonds of the city of Los Angeles, at the option of the Torrance-Marshall Company.

MAKES NOVEL DEFENSE. Jitney Driver Says That Two Men on Threat of Death Forced Him to Hold Up Another. Claiming that two companions had forced him to hold up Victoriano Cipriano on the night of July 7, Foster Bockman, Jr., jitney bus driver, developed some unusual testimony before Judge Craig in Superior Court yesterday. He is on trial for robbery and although other witnesses stated that they had seen him with a revolver in his hand and no other men standing beside him, he asserted that they stood at some distance away and had threatened to kill him unless he committed the deed.

THIS COURT'S ALL WOMEN. Judge, Bailiff, Clerk and Reporter of Fair Sex at Juvenile Hall. Referee Orta Jean Shonts presided at the first women's court at Juvenile Hall yesterday. It was an auspicious occasion. Standing at attention the first woman bailiff in any court waited the signal to open court. There was Mrs. Catherine Haw, matron of Juvenile Hall. She gently tapped a desk with her knuckles, and said, rather timidly, "Court is in session; order, please!" the woman clerk, Mrs. F. H. Byram, first assistant probation officer, alertly bent over the calendar book, pencil in hand, and the woman court reporter, Miss Elizabeth P. Houghton, hoped she would not be very nervous.

THE long drawn-out Chinese smuggling conspiracy case against Julio Liparoldi, Frank Sameri, Sherman Woolf, the Monterey attorney; Law Book Sing and Harry James, the Chinese moving picture performer, ended in Federal Judge Farrington's court yesterday afternoon, when the jury acquitted Liparoldi, Sameri and J. Sherman Woolf, and convicted Law Book Sing and Harry James.

CONSUMERS to the number of 450 or more will sit down to a Los Angeles luncheon at the Alexandria at noon today in honor of the salient achievements of Home Products Week.

THE phenomenal advance of the motion-picture business has constituted one of the most notable factors in the industrial progress of Los Angeles and Southern California during the year now drawing to a close.

IN A BACK ROOM. In a quiet back room of the restaurant he nibbled at his breakfast of last year by a vote of the city, reflects a healthy condition of the bond market and indicates a general upward trend of the financial market.

THE cause of the rather unusual procedure was a race against time. When the Council authorized the sale of the bonds, they had not been printed, although the contract for their printing had been awarded to a Philadelphia bank-note company.

AT a meeting of the Executive Committee at the Hollenbeck at noon yesterday, following the conference with the Board of Supervisors, Henry J. Penfold made it plain, for the directorate of the Panama-California Exposition, that the promptest of action is necessary.

MINT CANYON ROAD NOW TO BE BUILT. Board of Supervisors Makes Appropriation for this and the Harbor Truck Highway—They Can All be Put Through Without Bonds, Says Chairman Pridham. WITH the unanimous adoption of Chairman Pridham's resolution to appropriate $325,000 from the general fund of the county with which to build the Mint-canyon road, and with the letting of a $20,000 contract to macadamize the harbor truck highway, the Board of Supervisors yesterday proved that highway bonds are not at all necessary when it comes to a question of building roads. Furthermore, Chairman Pridham stated last night that with proper management all the roads for which bonds were voted down may be built without added taxation to the citizens, provided the work is not all done immediately.

Unexplained. BRIDEGROOM COMETH NOT FOR A WEDDING. THE person had been engaged, an elaborate supper planned and everything was ready for the wedding last night at the Alexandria Hotel of Mrs. Serena Angelotti of San Francisco and G. W. Bahr of Chicago, but the prospective groom failed to make his appearance. As a result the police of this city and Chicago have been asked to search for him, while Mrs. Angelotti is anxiously awaiting news of his whereabouts.

That Mr. Bahr, who is a wealthy jeweler, may have met with accident or fallen into the hands of criminals, is the fear of his fiancée. A telegram received early last night from Mr. Higginbottom, the missing man's partner, who has an office in the Great Northern Building, Chicago, strengthened the theory. The message said: "Mr. Bahr left here Saturday for Los Angeles. I have heard he was seen to leave the train outside of Chicago. I am much worried over his disappearance and am afraid he has been victimized in some way."

Mrs. Angelotti, who is staying at the Alexandria, has not heard from Mr. Bahr since Saturday morning, when he wired he would arrive in Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. She came here yesterday and began preparations for the wedding. She planned to have the ceremony and the wedding supper last night at the Alexandria. Eagerly Mrs. Angelotti waited word from him all day yesterday and late in the afternoon sent a telegram to his business partner. Upon receiving a reply she hurried to the Central Police Station and asked for aid in locating Mr. Bahr.

Relatives of Mrs. Angelotti said last night they are certain the prospective groom has been the victim of foul play. They declared he was deeply in love with his fiancée and there could be no reason for his failing to send her an explanation if he has not been held against his will.

Mrs. Angelotti, who is the daughter of W. Harich of San Mateo county, met Mr. Bahr in San Diego several years ago. Her husband, who was a musician, died last November.

Mrs. Angelotti said she has planned to go to both expositions after their wedding.

FAMOUS EDITOR IS DELIGHTED.

Says Los Angeles is Far in the Forefront.

Roosevelt's Adviser Declares T. R. is Out of Race.

Progressive Would Vote for Hughes for President.

The dean and recognized leader of New England journalism, Mr. Frank L. Dingley of the Lawton (Me.) Journal, has been spending a few days in Los Angeles, and last evening went to San Diego to see the fair. Mr. Dingley enjoyed most heartily his visit to this city, and is enthusiastic in his comments on the charms of Southern California. He is an admirer of the western spirit of expansion and progress, and declares that Los Angeles is 100 years in advance of some parts of the country in its development of modern ideals.

Mr. Dingley is a famous traveler and philosopher and a great builder. He has built over fifty houses himself and knows a house when he sees one. He was most happily impressed with the variety, resourcefulness and art of southern architecture, and remarked that no part of the world could furnish his counterpart. He remarked particularly upon the artistic effects seen in the homes of the humble, as well as in the mansions of the wealthy. It has been ten years since Mr. Dingley's last previous visit to Los Angeles, and he is full of every respect has surpassed all his preconceptions. He said that the good roads system of our country is the greatest asset we could have and an inspiration to other parts of the country. In all his travels over the civilized world, he said, he never saw such beautiful private roads as he visited in Los Angeles and Pasadena.

As a hard-working, vigilant and closely-observing journalist, Mr. Dingley has come to the conclusion that Germany cannot ultimately prevail against all the forces, military and moral, united against her. He gives President Wilson full credit for ability, finesse and courage in his handling of the difficulties growing out of the war, but he insists that he should have made a stronger and more aggressive appeal for recourse to the Hague tribunal and possibly might have aroused responses which would have made for peace. Mr. Dingley believes thoroughly in a peace programme, which shall include not only a court of arbitration, but an armed force behind it, to assure that its decrees shall be enforced.

Mr. Dingley has been the general-in-chief of the "Progressive" party in Maine, but recognizes that the "Progressive" party as such is now "out of commission," and that the hope of the nation lies in the Republican party. He was one of Theodore Roosevelt's trusted counselors; was frequently called to the White House when Roosevelt was President, and was one of his principal advisers in the last Presidential campaign.

"But," he said yesterday, "Col. Roosevelt is no longer a factor. He ruined any chance he may have had by his outspoken attack on Germany; he is not in the running."

It is Mr. Dingley's belief that if the war continues President Wilson will be a dangerous candidate; he is a "war President," and people will be loath to make a change. "I am not for Wilson. I shall support a Progressive Republican candidate if he is nominated," said Mr. Dingley; "but we must not take too much comfort from Republican victories in an off-year; we must not underestimate Wilson's strength."

"I have no hesitancy in saying that Mr. Justice Hughes is the man for the Republicans to nominate for President. He is the winner; he is the man who will attract the 'Progressive' vote."

Mr. Dingley was one of the earliest advocates of the current suffrage in the United States, and was delighted with what he learned as to the workings of suffrage in California. He will go from San Diego to San Francisco and spend a week at the exposition. His daughter, Mrs. Blanche Dingley-Matthews of Denver, one of the most successful musical educators and publishers in the country, is coming to Los Angeles this winter.

Mr. Dingley's original and sensible comments on the current suffrage in school lessons have made him a celebrity in religious circles. For thirty years he has written a slashing, savory, untrammeled Sunday lesson for his Saturday Journal without missing a week, and he did not fail to sit down in his hotel room and pay his respects to Jonah and the whale while he was here. He declares that the only trouble with Jonah was that he was spiritually indigestible.

GETS NEW TRIAL.

Higher Court Grants Appeal of Woman Convicted of the Slaying of Her Husband.

The District Court of Appeal yesterday reversed the ruling of Superior Judge Frank R. Willis, who refused a new trial to Mrs. Irene S. Murphy, convicted of manslaughter for the killing of her husband, William Murphy, in their late home near La Canada, April 15, last, and sentenced to two years in San Quentin. The court holds that it was reversible error in admitting the testimony of a witness named Lane who declared that just before Murphy died he had told Lane that his wife had shot him. The statement was vitally damaging to the defendant. The court holds that the remark was a narration of a past event, and not the dying declaration of Murphy, therefore not admissible. Chancey Gardner conducted Mrs. Murphy's defense and appeal.

The court affirmed the judgment of Superior Judge Sherk, allowing William F. Poor a writ of mandate directing George E. Yarnell, secretary, Miss K. M. McAllister, assistant secretary, and Adolph Schlicher, president of the Federal Mortgage and Bond Company, to permit Poor to inspect certain corporate records, consisting of a list of the names and addresses of the stockholders of the company.

In the case appealed by A. Dial, from the judgment of Superior Judge Curtis of San Bernardino county, against Dial for the alleged violation of the local option law in selling liquor within what is known as the third supervisory district of San Bernardino county, the judgment of the lower court was affirmed. The court held that the local option election was properly held and that Dial violated the law in selling the liquor.

Would Annul Union with Planter's Son.

Mrs. Mary Miller Guerrero.

Who says the son of a wealthy family of coffee planters forced her to the altar at pistol's point. She is seeking annulment of the marriage, which was performed nearly four years ago.

SAYS SHE WAS WEDDED AT REVOLVER'S POINT.

IN THE fierce, impetuous way of the Latin race, Carlos T. Guerrero, a student, carried off Miss Mary Miller, a schoolgirl, and married her in Santa Ana. This alleged act was not accomplished, Mrs. Guerrero says, in an annulment complaint filed yesterday, until she had been induced to drink out of a bottle and threatened with a revolver pressed to her side.

The dark day in the history of Mrs. Guerrero was January 5, 1912. Mr. Guerrero, whose parents in Mexico are said by Attorney Cleveland Schultz to be a coffee plantation and to be prominently connected, brought around an automobile and asked her to take a ride. Very soon she says he produced a bottle of wine and induced her to take a drink. He asked her when she was going to marry him and she replied that she had no such intention. In short, she declared she would never marry him.

This was the signal for the impetuous lover to draw a revolver, and placing it against her side, she asserts he threatened to kill her unless she consented. She was only 17 and, never having taken an intoxicating drink, her mind was in a whirl. She says she lost her bearings and was unable to tell in what direction she was driven.

The event which transpired afterward appeared as a misty dream. She knows that they alighted from the auto, others being in the party, and she learned later that a wedding ceremony was performed. Returning to the city she was taken to a hotel and she was given wine to drink. For three days, she says, she did not leave the room, being in a semi-stupor, but upon regaining consciousness, she left the hotel and returned to her parents.

Nine Jurymen.

Jurors, bringing the number of accepted men up to nine. The two additional permanent jurors secured yesterday are Joseph E. Moore, a teamster who resides at Bell; and Frank Pease of Alhambra, formerly engaged in the department store business in Illinois, but now taking care of a citrus grove.

The expected sensation, through the filing of an affidavit by Marie Latta charging that the District Attorney was making improper examination of witnesses for the defense before the grand jury, fell flat.

The affidavit of Miss Latta was presented by the defense counsel to the court and Judge Willis simply stated that the court would take it under consideration.

Dist. Atty. Woolwine said yesterday afternoon that he had filed no counter-affidavit and did not believe that it was necessary; that the substance of the charge in the latter affidavit was that she had been summoned before the grand jury and that this was not denied.

Ten men were examined as to their qualifications for jurors yesterday and out of this lot only one temporary juror now remains in the box subject to peremptory challenges later, while the balance have been called into the box to be examined the first thing this morning. The veniremen brought in from Department Eighteen are rapidly being exhausted. It is probable, however, that a full jury will be secured today.

The examination of talesmen at the morning session included Frank Pease, Alhambra, and William Justice, No. 1242 Gordon street, Hollywood; this again filling the jury box. The exercise of peremptory challenges then followed. The State excused William Justice and J. J. Fowler, and this leaves three peremptory challenges for the State and four for the defense still unused.

Always in the questioning of the jurors there is brought up the subject of capital punishment. William Justice was asked to express himself on this subject yesterday. His reply was the cause of much amusement. Said he:

"There was a good long time in my life that I was opposed to capital punishment, but as I've grown older and got to know the world better, I think there's a lot of men that ought to be hung."

Following the exercise of peremptory challenges, in the attempt to fill the three vacant places in the jury box there were examined and excused William Campbell, rancher, Van Nuys; Arthur L. Dutton, builder, and contractor, Long Beach; and W. E. Johnson, Los Angeles; James A. Barnett, rancher, Lancaster; Edward Arnesen, contractor, Los Angeles; Charles H. Strong, No. 715 Waterloo street, and building; C. Bell, orange grower of Lordsburg.

George W. Scott of Rivera was passed for cause. He has resided twenty-eight years in Los Angeles county, is at present an orange grower, but has been in the livery business and manager of water companies. John F. Ballard and J. E. Carter were called for examination just before the court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

TO TRIAL AT LAST.

Actual Hearing of the Catalina Hate Case is Started Before the Railroad Commission.

After nearly two years of legal fencing, President Thelen of the State Railroad Commission began the hearing of testimony yesterday, in the case of Miller & Donaldson against the Wilmington Transportation Company. The complainants, who are Avalon merchants, allege that the rates charged for the transportation of persons and property between the mainland and Catalina Island are excessive and ask that they be reduced.

The case came under the scrutiny of the State Railroad Commission a second time, after both the State Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court had passed on the question of whether or not the commonwealth has jurisdiction over the rates of a company whose boats traverse the high seas in commerce between points within the State.

Both bodies decided that it did, hence the remanding of the complaint to the State Railroad Commission for judgment. It was stated, yesterday, that the decision in this case will be made a precedent for several others.

With the new officers of the commission in the Union League Building crowded with shippers, steamship men, and residents of Catalina Island, testimony, mostly devoted to the simple merits of the complaint, fell on eager ears. The Wilmington Transportation Company attempted to prove that the rates charged are only commensurate with the risk involved in shipping between the mainland and the island.

If You Want Cash We Have Plenty

If a little cash would come in handy you can borrow it from us on easy terms.

We loan money to help build a house on your lot, to remove an existing incumbrance from your property or on any good improved property for any good purpose—in amounts not to exceed $3,000.00.

We have been engaged in lending money for more than 26 years, and have more than $3,800,000 loaned out now. We make it so easy and convenient to repay a loan that hundreds of borrowers have transferred their loans to us and have saved many dollars in interest by doing so.

All our loans are repaid in small monthly payments. Thus you never have to scrape up enough cash to pay off the entire loan at once, but pay it off gradually. And you never pay interest on the full amount but once—after the first monthly payment the loan decreases each month and the interest decreases accordingly.

Write for our Loan Folder.

WOULD APPLY BUSINESS RULES TO GOVERNMENT.

President of Home Telephone Company Points Out the Need of Same Discrimination in Picking Political Employees as Private Concern Would Use.

A. B. Cam, president of the Home Telephone Company, made an interesting address on the application of business rules to the science of government yesterday at a banquet of the Iowan Electric League, at Christy's, No. 719 South Broadway. He said in part:

"If employees were selected by business men with the same lack of intelligent discrimination that you and I select our political employees, the business of which you are a part would have long since fallen into a hopeless heap of ruins, just as our government is today threatening to tumble about our heads."

"There rests upon each of us a great responsibility, not only as representatives of corporations, firms and individuals, but as citizens of our great commonwealth to perpetuate the institutions handed down by our forefathers, who so carefully built the bulwarks of liberty behind which we are entrenched."

"There are today more miles of railroad in receivers' hands than there ever were in the history of the country. The roads are in the unenviable position of being required by law to perform the duties of common carriers without power to so adjust their rates as to furnish the necessary revenue. Legislative bodies have assumed the right to 'regulate'—which usually means to lower—their rates without assuming the responsibility for the losses which follow."

"The great need of the country is for men like you to bring to bear on the subject your keenest intellect. You owe it to civilization to use the analytical powers of your minds in defeating the forces which are giving your lives to men who through political maneuvering try to neutralize your efforts for the legitimate lines of progress. We must study these men and their farm."

LOS ANGELES DOLLARS FOR OUR PROSPERITY.

BY ARTHUR W. KINNEY, Industrial Commissioner, Chamber of Commerce.

WE ARE ALL WORKING to make Los Angeles a greater and more prosperous city. One of our fondest prophecies has been that we shall have here a population of one million in 1920. The realization of this desire has long been the hope of almost every ambitious and progressive Los Angeleno.

But do we stop to consider that great cities are invariably created through the building up of great industries—through the giving of constant employment to large numbers of people? Do we fully realize the futility of attracting people here unless there is work for them to do? Do we realize that the continued growth of our city, its trade and its commerce, are dependent upon the development and extension of our industrial resources and that it is incumbent upon us to add to our factory outputs and multiply our factory pay rolls?

The prosperity and usefulness of our home industrial institutions have long been affected through the lack of appreciation and encouragement which are essential to their well-being and expansion. The hour has struck for our patriotic people to rally to the support of these institutions.

It may be said with all earnestness and soberness and without reservation whatsoever, that unless we materially increase the pay rolls and manufacturing output of this city we cannot expect this city to continue to grow as rapidly as it has in the past; we cannot expect to realize a commerce in keeping with the importance of our harbor, for agricultural cargoes alone will not maintain a profitable merchant marine. Unless there is employment here we cannot consistently look for a greatly augmented population, nor can we expect a continued influx of everyday working Americans here to make their homes.

It is easy enough to start a factory for the manufacture of a particular commodity. It is easy, too, to make that commodity of as high quality and as cheaply as the article produced by the factories of other regions, but it is not so easy to find a home market for the home-manufactured product—to convince our home people that it should be given an even chance, if not the preference, at all times.

Home patronage will mean steady and increasing factory pay rolls for our community. Steady pay rolls will keep large sums of money in constant circulation among our merchants. Increased business among our merchants will mean more employment to our people and more prosperity all around.

Many thousands of our citizens are engaged in agriculture and fruit raising. By expanding our industrial activities, thereby employing more workers, we shall find more home buyers for the products of our soil, and none can deny that the home market for such products is the most valuable market of all.

Many of our manufacturers, through patience, perseverance and industry, have built up establishments here whose products are a credit to our city. Their enterprise merits the recognition and support of our people.

Such recognition and support will be a message to manufacturers elsewhere, engaged in lines of industries not represented here, that ours is an appreciative population. It will thus make it easy for us to secure these needed new industries.

Our home manufacturing concerns help to maintain the civic institutions of our city. They contribute materially to its welfare and progress and they deserve our support and patronage.

In these times of world-wide conflict that call for the supreme test of patriotism, we should have that type of patriotism which, like charity, begins at home. We should carry our patriotism into the shops and stores with us. We should buy "Made in Los Angeles" goods whenever possible, for every dollar's worth of these purchased helps to put back to work the idle people of our community. Every dollar spent for "Made in Los Angeles" goods helps to keep a Los Angeles man or woman at work in a Los Angeles factory.

In doing this we are not building up a prejudice against the goods from other localities—we are merely removing what prejudice there may exist against home-made goods. Goods from other localities will continue to sell on their merits, but inasmuch as it has been demonstrated through the test of time that the home-manufactured article is of as low a price, of as good a quality and as fit for every required purpose as the article manufactured elsewhere, we shall, indeed, lack in loyalty to our home interests if we do not give it the preference whenever possible.

In view of the fact that the great commonwealth of California is unnecessarily sending half a billion dollars annually to other States for goods that we produce here, it is folly unapproachable for us to sit idly by and wait for future political upheavals and the cessation of a foreign war to bring us a resumption of progress and a return of prosperity. Our present as well as future needs, whatever may be the outcome of the political and war situation, insistently demand a greater development of our home resources and more opportunities, a development that must be fostered through the support and extension of our home-manufacturing industries. Buying Los Angeles-made goods of Los Angeles dealers will keep Los Angeles money busy in Los Angeles.

WOULD APPLY BUSINESS RULES TO GOVERNMENT.

President of Home Telephone Company Points Out the Need of Some Discrimination in Picking Political Employees as Private Concerns Would Do.

A. E. Case, president of the Home Telephone Company, made an interesting address on the application of business rules to the science of government yesterday at a banquet of the Home Electric League, at Christy's hall, No. 729 South Broadway. He said in part:

"If employees were selected by business men with the same lack of intelligent discrimination that you and I select our political employees, the business of which you are a part would have long since fallen into a chaotic heap of ruins, just as our government is today threatening to do so."

"There rests upon each of us a great responsibility, not only as representatives of corporations, firms and individuals, but as citizens of our great commonwealth to perpetuate the institution handed down by our forefathers, who so carefully built the framework of liberty behind which we are protected."

"There is abroad today a spirit of leveling criticism of everything tending toward success. This spirit has been given expression in much harmful restrictive legislation which is impeding the onward march of civilization."

"There are today more miles of railroad in receivership here than ever before in the history of the country. The roads are in the unenviable position of being required by law to perform the duties of common carriers without power to so adjust their rates as to furnish the necessary revenue. Private bodies have assumed the regulation—which usually means to lower—their rates without assuming the responsibility for the result which follows."

"The great need of the country is to have you to bring to bear on the subject your keenest intellect. You are to civilization to use the analytical powers of your minds in defeating those who seek to destroy the enterprise you are giving your lives to. It is those who through political maneuvering try to neutralize your efforts in the legitimate lines of progress. We must study these men and their methods. We must devise ways of meeting them on their own ground, political or otherwise, and contest every inch of the ground over which they are now striving to destroy our work."

"It is of great importance that the men we send to represent us in the legislative halls and make the laws by which we and our institutions must live and thrive, should not be tainted with this germ of disorder and antagonism to the proper economic development of the vital forces of the nation. We have delayed too long. We must realize the importance of the application of proper rules of economics to our every-day life."

"We have no right to expect that while we are devoting our time to the working out of matters pertaining wholly to business, some intangible force working without our assistance is going to carry on the affairs of state to our best interest."

"I shall we continue to go on in the blind blundering way we have or shall we not apply to the vital issues of life some of the intelligence God has given us. The responsibility rests with ourselves. Let us rise to the occasion."

Mrs. E. W. Wilson and some of her charges, at the Woman's Alliance Day and Night Nursery on South Utah street, for which an active campaign for funds is in progress. These children are poor babies cared for by a group of generous club women whose problem is becoming a serious one with the approach of winter and the increase of demands upon the organization.

SUN BATHS FOR CHILLY BABIES.

WINTER PARLOR SOUGHT FOR INFANTS OF POOR.

Campaign for Funds to Relieve the Necessities of the Women's Alliance Nursery Meets with Good Response, but Much More is Needed Before Cool Weather Comes.

A sun-parlor in which 100 babies can play and grow and thrive on the chilliest winter days is the pet ambition of the kindly members of the Women's Alliance, who for nine years have maintained a modest maternity cottage for poor women and for one a still more modest nursery for their babies next door, on South Utah street. Their quarters long outgrown, the active workers of the alliance are trying to raise enough money to build needed additions to both structures before the advent of winter. Their appeal has already met with a generous response, but much more is needed if the ambitions are to be realized.

While the sun-parlor might be considered, by those unversed in the needs of babies, as being a bit of a luxury, it is not so regarded by Mrs. William Baurhite, president of the alliance, and the women who give a large part of their not too abundant time and means to helping her in the care of the home. Fresh air and sunshine are looked upon as better medicine for babies than paregoric and soothing syrup by these women, who are admittedly in a position to know something about it. In warm weather the tots, not one of whom is over 2 years of age, spend nearly all of their waking hours in the open air and thrive amazingly. To deprive them of the air and sun even for the few months of Southern California winter, would seriously militate against their health, it is feared.

Much more room is needed in both nursery and maternity cottage than the work is to go on, says Mrs. Baurhite. In addition to giving the best of medical care and nursing to mothers too poor to go to a hospital, the cottage also manages to squeeze in some practical charity in the neighborhood of its location, such as the use of bath tubs, sanitary and medical advice, settlement work and the like.

The officers and directors of the association are Mrs. William Baurhite, Mrs. L. C. Torrance, Mrs. F. E. Lee, Mrs. C. C. Wright, Mrs. Luther C. Wood, Mrs. John D. Fredericks, Mrs. C. J. Golden, Mrs. A. S. McKeever, Mrs. G. G. Howland, Mrs. Martha Torgart and Miss Katherine Torrance.

TO HIGHER COURTS.

Attorneys for Accused Policemen Will Continue Fight to Obtain a Habeas Corpus Writ.

With the denial by Judge Craig of a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Police Sgt. William Cahill and Patrolman Samuel Shanno, attorneys for the defendants yesterday announced their intention of applying for such a writ to the District Court of Appeal. Attorney W. J. Ford, declared that such a writ should be granted on the ground that there is no evidence to show that a crime has been committed and in support of this assertion, he will submit a transcript of the preliminary hearing in which Justice Hinshaw refused to seriously consider a murder charge. Judge Craig yesterday morning reduced the bail of each officer to $3000. This was objected to by Deputy District Attorney Doran, who will also oppose any attempt of dismissal of the case by the habeas corpus method.

JAIL FOR BLIND MAN.

Octogenarian, Convicted of Selling Liquor Without License, Gets a Six-months' Sentence.

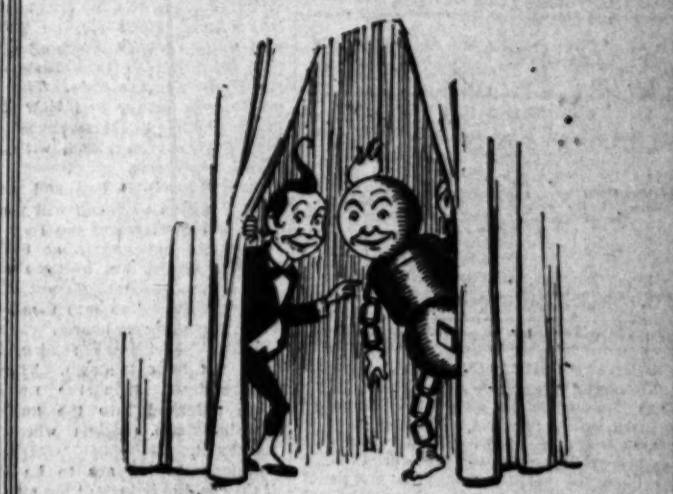

Sentenced to six months in the County Jail for operating a "blind pig" at Pomona, Desidero Luera, an 80-year-old blind man, arrived yesterday morning. He was so feeble that it was necessary for two jail trustees to escort him to his cell and take care of him while he was in the jail. A jury in the court of Justice Barnes of Pomona convicted him of the charge. An effort is being made to interest the Board of Supervisors in the case with the hope that he may be paroled or removed to the county farm.

ORCHESTRA RENEWS REHEARSALS FOR SEASON.

The first rehearsal for the season of the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra was held Tuesday morning at Trinity Auditorium, with sixty-five members of the orchestra. The rehearsal was arranged by John T. Tanner, whose baton the orchestra has such striking gains in accuracy as a short address to the men, then to arrive constantly toward the attainment of greater quality and more flexibility in work.

One of the features of the Orchestra this evening at Trinity Auditorium will be the singing of Adolphe's world-renowned Christmas song, "O Holy Night," which has been arranged by John T. Tanner for male chorus and piano. Will Garaway, the club's pianist, who is also organist, will play at the new Trinity organ.

Students in the College of Music at the University of Southern California, are a public recital in Symphony Hall at 4 o'clock. A number of the advanced pupils in the school will take part in a varied program, which the public is invited.

How many budding playwrights are there in Los Angeles? Is the question that will be agitating the minds of the drama study department of the Los Angeles Drama League, at the public meeting of their new series of studies at 8:15 this evening. The play, "The Vikings at Helsingland," will be read by Dr. Allen, head of the department of the University of Southern California, emphasizing the subject, "The play is built" after which all are invited to participate in a discussion.

These meetings, which are open to the public, are held on Thursdays of each month, and later consider plays by Maudslaw, Lady Gregory, Shaw, and other contemporary dramatists. Some of the best-known students of drama in Los Angeles will operate in this series of studies.

Rheumatism Due to Bad Blood. S.S.S. Your Remedy
Thousands have been made well. People in the poorest health, suffering from rheumatism, with whom pain was constant. Who believed that their trouble was beyond repair. It was proven to them that the cause of their trouble was the blood; that Uric Acid, the most faithful ally of rheumatism, had gripped them. The poison in the blood had sapped its strength. The weakened blood had allowed poison and impurities to accumulate. All energy was gone. They felt "poorly," were listless, pain was constant, with poor digestion and dyspepsia. They tried S.S.S.—nature's remedy. They gave up drugs. This compound of nature's remedies of herbs did what drugs failed to do. OREGON TEAM STARTS SOUTH FOR THE BIG GAME.

On Way Here.
OREGON ELEVEN IS A MYSTERY.
Students not Even Allowed to See Work.
Secret Practices for Two Weeks Mystified.
To Spring Strange Plays on U.S.C.

(BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH)
PORTLAND (Or.) Nov. 3.—Capt. Cornell has been out of games all season due to injuries received early this year in practice and it is doubtful if he ever plays again unless it be in Oregon-Oregon Aggies game November 30. Huntington undoubtedly will play in Cornell's place.

Then, too, Cornell's eyesight is very bad. He nearly went blind last year. He was elected captain at close of season 1914 and is so popular as to hold the place all this season. He has been out in suit but played no strenuous game at all.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene (Or.) Nov. 3.—The ordinary layman at the University of Oregon knows nothing concerning the status of the lemon-yellow football team. Work has been going on steadily for the last two weeks, but behind the curtain of secret practice and early today it was harder than ever, for Resnick tonight is far from being satisfied with the team that is speeding southward to Los Angeles. They were given a rousing send-off by thousands of students and Eugene citizens.

MYSTERIES.
However, remarks from some few choice spirits are to the effect that when the Oregon team lines up against U.S.C. it will spring a few new football mysteries.

A few of the Oregon men have been bundled up with sore arms for the past three weeks, but there are no serious injuries. Monteth has been laid up with a bad knee, but will probably perform in the California match. Bigbee, Mitchell and Huntington are also on trainer Hayward's sick list, but all will be in tip-top shape for the coming fray.

GET AGGIES.
The California game has not assumed such great proportions as has the coming contest on November 20 with the Oregon Aggies. It is rumored that Oregon will seek an eastern game for next season. "We won't play the University of Chicago, though. I don't want to beat Stagg," said Coach Resnick, as he jovially referred to his old coach.

POLY SCRUBS WALLOPED BY TOILER SUBSTITUTES.
Manual Arts football squad succeeded in winning a football game yesterday afternoon when the second team got revenge for the defeat Poly handed Manual last Friday by trouncing the Poly seconds, 24 to 6.

Yesterday's game was short but sweet, and ended in a fight, with one of the Mechanics players getting knocked out by Harold Galloway. The trouble started when, but two minutes had been played of the last quarter, Harold Galloway got into a dispute with one of the Poly players. Before they could be parted Galloway knocked his opponent out cold. The Polytechnic coach called his team off the field and would not allow the game to continue.

The game started by Manual kicking into the Poly territory. After only a few minutes play in the Poly territory Charley Erb carried the ball over for a touchdown. Leadingham kicked goal, giving Manual a 7-to-0 lead. Manual again kicked off and on the first down one of the Poly players fumbled the ball, allowing Lilly to scoop it up and run forty yards for the second touchdown. Leadingham again kicked goal. The quarter ended with Manual leading 14 to 0.

Manual started the second quarter by carrying the ball to Poly's twenty-yard line by making first down three times straight. Lilly failed on a drop for the second touchdown. Leadingham again kicked goal. The quarter ended with Manual leading 17 to 0.

In the third quarter Manual again got within striking distance of Poly's goal by a twenty-yard run on an intercepted forward pass by Erb and a fifteen-yard end run by Larsen. Manual

GLORIES OUT FOR VICTORY.
The scribes earning their three a day via the morning-paper route hereby challenge the Twilight Squirrels to a football game.
Having demonstrated their superiority upon that other great field of honor, the baseball diamond, by defeats of the Squirrels in two successive years, the Glories now propose to continue their undefeated way on the gridiron.

This challenge must be accepted within three days or the Squirrels will be considered as no longer worthy of any recognition in the world of sport.

BASEBALL WORLD MISSES HAP HOGAN'S RENDEZVOUS.

Big Deals of Coast League Made There—Players from All Over Country Swapped Yarns and Real Stories Resulted—Barney Fails to Consult Darmody—Kane is Fast and not Old by Full of a Jug.

Baseball Gossip.

There is a winter desolation on Spring street never there before. Hap Hogan's old place is closed. To the average man of affairs this means nothing, but to the sporting, and especially baseball fraternity, it leaves a void difficult to fill.

The death of Hap marked the passing of a character; the closing of his Spring-street resort removed an institution. It has been closed for some months, but not until the winter was the loss fully felt. It was in the winter or off-season that Hap's billiard parlors became the sporting center of the city, and the baseball mecca of the country.

Baseball players from all corners of the continent flock to Los Angeles in the winter. Hogan's was generally the first place sought when they landed in town. The meeting was always informal. Hap welcomed the newcomers, kidded him a bit and they became friends for life. As a result, Hogan's emporium quickly became the baseball capital of the world and the clearing-house for baseball news and gossip.

Big deals were framed and put through, and some of the best baseball news stories in the history of the league were whispered to blaze forth in printed banner late a few hours later. Scores of men, ranging from those days he tipped the beam at 150 and could do the century in 10-15. Another ex-bonus crusher new in our midst is George Kahler of the Portland Beavers. Kahler formerly played on the varsity at the University of West Virginia, and later coached Ohio Union. Kahler was not adverse to officiating at some of the local games should his services be in demand.

Eddie Alsmith, battery mate of Walter Johnson on the Washington club, has been sold to the Boston Braves, according to Bob Knowlton, who has returned here from the East where he umpired last winter. There has been no official announcement of the transfer, but Knowlton, who comes direct from Boston, says that he has the right dope. Alsmith will succeed Bert Whaling, who was traded to the Vernon club.

Tommy Tennant has a hunch that he may get on with Oakland next season. In fact, it is believed he has received a tentative offer. Tennant looked like a good ball player the last time he was here with Salt Lake, although he had fallen off somewhat in his batting. He says this was but a temporary slump, and that he will come back strong next season. He expects to play winter ball in the Imperial League.

Bill Stevens, the Santa Ana boy who was given a brief tryout by the Angels and found unripe, has been drafted from the Tacoma club by Denver. Stevens hit well over .300 last season. He is a catcher.

Although not going in the capacity of an invited guest, George Stovall will attend the minor league meeting in San Francisco. Stovall was not exactly invited to attend the ball game during which he dragged Joe Geddon and Jimmy Johnston back under the grand stand along about the fifth inning and hooked them to Federal League contracts. His idea in attending the meeting is to try and wear a minor league or two away from organized baseball. Whether or not organized baseball will object to this is not known.

Bill Piercy and Don Rader will pack up the extra celluloid collar and beat it for El Centro today. They have signed with Rube Gardner, the famous off-season manager.

The Vernon club is after two right-handed pitchers, and deals for them may be put through at the minor league meeting.

Hi West will try the experiment of pitching one game a week in Bill Goodman's "Clubs" club this winter. Hi figures that one game a week is exactly what his arm needs.

Gus Helling is a candidate for the management of the Wichita club in the Western League to succeed Ham Patterson. Gus is said to stand a good chance of landing the place. He was an automobile as a third baseman, and would like to do the same thing as a manager, but it is not believed that they will offer any automobile to managers in the Western—at least, not next season. In that circuit even the owners are walking these days.

George Pick, third baseman of the Richmond club of the International League, who is here to play winter ball, may land with the Philadelphia Athletics next season. Pick left yesterday for El Centro, where he will play under Rube Gardner in the Imperial Valley League.

F. W. Weego, who stages semi-pro games weekly at the stadium in San Diego, is here for the purpose of rounding up a number of teams for a league, to be composed exclusively of semi-pros. While here he will make overtures to the Pacific Electric, Demonds and the Universals. He hopes later to take in Oxnard and San Pedro.

Joe Rafferty, who has charge of the booking at Spaulding's, yesterday received a wire from Calexico, asking him to send down eleven athletes, missing a whole ball team. This is a large order to fill on short notice.

Galloway, the Denver second baseman, drafted by Los Angeles, is playing winter ball at Ray, Ariz. Flame Dehl is a member of the same club.

Regarding the report that he might sell his Los Angeles club holdings to Barney Oldfield, Tom Darmody said: "As I have not been informed that Oldfield wants to buy me out, and I have no desire to sell, I can truthfully say that there is no deal on that I know about. I don't think that anybody will buy me out without me knowing about it."

Tub Spencer can be found haunting the gridiron these days. He finds the odor of the tankard irresistible. Tub formerly gained fame in the game of tackle and buck as a member of a professional team in Pennsylvania. In those days he tipped the beam at 150 and could do the century in 10-15. Another ex-bonus crusher new in our midst is George Kahler of the Portland Beavers. Kahler formerly played on the varsity at the University of West Virginia, and later coached Ohio Union.
